One of my best memories from my three years in junior school is joining an English speech contest. At first I was very nervous because I was not good at English and I did not like speaking in front of people. I was afraid of making mistakes. However I practiced every day , I practiced my pronunciation, intonation and gestures many times. My teacher and friends supported me and gave me a lot of advice. On the day of the contest I was still nervous but I became calm when I started speaking. I did not give up and finished my speech until the end. When it was over I felt a strong sense of achievement. Through this experience I learned the importance of effort and trying next things. Joining the English speech contest is a precious memory of my three years in junior high school.

My best memory from junior high school is coming in first place in the color-group relay race at my final sports meet. I was losing until the final stretch, and when I looked to the side, I saw my group cheering me on, so I gave it my all and came in first place.

My favorite memory is our chorus contest. We wanted our class win, so we practiced hard. We felt we were getting better day by day. Before our class won on the sports festival. Because the class was united, so we tried our best this time to win the actual performance. We sang the best song we've ever sung, so we were sure of winning. However, we didn't win. It was frustrating, but I did my best so I was satisfied with the result. I will never forget this.

Amazing Memory

My best school memory was the Sports Day. I tried my best in the tug-of-war. I was so happy because we won the tug-of-war. And we could make a good team in the relay. It was really fun. I became a cheerleader and learned the joy of teaching others. It was fun for us to practice dance. So I was able to make it the best Sports Day. We didn't win but it was a good memory.

Memories of Sports Day

I ran in a team relay race with my classmates. I also did a relay with everyone in the group. Although my legs hurt, I ran as hard as I could run a relay with everyone in the club. Although we lost to the track and field team. I was happy to come in second place. I was very happy because we came in first place in the cheering contest. I became closer to my friends on the same team. It became a fun memory.

My favorite memory of junior high school was school trip. At first I learned how to act with my friends there. So it is helpful for me to act with my friends in my life. However we couldn't take action in my communications without my teacher's help. So we practiced hard every day to be a person who can talk well together. As a result, we have learned to communicate in our lives thanks to a lot of experiences there.
